

Math 131 Homework Rewrites

July 25, 2012

Like other writing, good math writing is a process that includes revision. In Math 131 this is reflected in the rewrite policy. You will have the opportunity to turn in a rewritten copy of the first four homeworks for a revised grade.

- Rewrites will be due at the same time as normal homework, two weeks after the original due date. Graded homework will be returned within a week, so you will have one week to complete each rewrite.
- Only problems or parts of problems that were attempted in the original homework may be rewritten. No credit will be given for problems initially left blank.
- When you turn in your rewrites, please attach the original graded homework, along with your revised copy.
- Mark the changes you make in the new copy. This may be done with a highlighter, a different font, or any other method that makes it clear where changes from the original have been made.
- Feel free to turn in rewrites of some problems but not others. If a problem has not been rewritten it does not need to be re-turned in.
